JOHNNY WONDER

Q. WHEN WAS THE PENCIL INVENTED?

DAVID LEE, OF
WALNUT, CA., WINS
A PRIZE FOR THIS QUESTION.

A.

Some 500 years ago, the merchants in the town of Cumberland, England, began marking their wares with a soft black stone called "graphite." But this soft stone broke too easily, and stained the hand. Some unknown genius solved the problem by wrapping slender sticks of graphite with twine that was unwound as the graphite wore down.

Later, clay was mixed with the graphite to make it harder. Finally, in 1812, an American named William Monroe glued rods of molded graphite between tightly-fitting slats of wood—resulting in the first modern pencils.

You can win a World Almu-nity if your question is selected. Send your name and age to JOHNNY WONDER, P.O. Box 1234, Santa Cruz, CA 95061.
